RECOMMENDATION

Nikolay Yuchormansky

I have known Mr. Yuchormanski since October 2023, when I selected him in my frontend developer team for the Softuni training track. This was Nikolai's first team project after completing other training at the academy. The reason for the inclusion was the first impression after a short conversation on my specific project idea, he showed great enthusiasm and commitment to team participation.

Mr. Yuchormanski was actively involved in the work of the team I managed. He quickly managed to fit into the newly created team. He followed the rules that I had established at the very beginning, such as attending the weekly meetings, completing the assigned tasks on time, working with the other colleagues from the team. He familiarized himself with the requirements of the project in detail and also contributed to it with his own ideas and suggestions.

His enthusiasm for work and excellent communication skills made him a valuable member of the team. His excellent results and initiative were not missed, and at a later stage I decided to transfer the people from the backend to the frontend helping him in the development of the project, and let Nikolay manage them himself. He managed to achieve the set tasks always on time and with great diligence that can also be seen in his personal repositories.

Competent and organized, his positive attitude and desire to develop make him the ideal candidate to complement the team of developers.
